Time & Place

26th of May 2023, Berlin

9:30 am – 12.00 pm | Klosterstr. 64, 10179 Berlin

Description

Regenerative solutions like permaculture and ecosystem restoration have a great potential to improve the livelihoods of millions of people worldwide.

Displaced people like refugees can benefit from regenerative practices like agroforestry, which contributes to most of the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) simultaneously, for example by reducing hunger and poverty, empowering women and youth with high quality education, strengthening biodiversity, storing carbon in the soil and thus protecting the climate and many more.

This event presents positive examples of knowledge & experience that already exist, discusses the obstacles that hinder these solutions to be widespread yet and encourages stakeholders to get active.

Goals of the event

- Understand the enormous potential of regenerative solutions for building global resilience and achieving the SDGs
- Discover Best Practice examples from communities worldwide
- Discuss ways for each stakeholder group to contribute, so that regenerative approaches integrate in refugee camps design
